

Jim Cronin is a founder and partner of ReadTomato and a pioneer in real estate blogging, recognized as an authority in the space since 2006. He has personally trained thousands of top agents on the power of content marketing and now helps service-based businesses turn their expertise into clear, compelling content that attracts, educates, and converts.

Marshall Gill is a Partner at ReadTomato and a branding and marketing strategist focused on making marketing messages customers actually click. Since 2002, he has helped brands in tourism, hospitality, oil and gas, tech, and real estate turn expertise into clear, search-ready content that attracts, educates, and connects with customers.

Rob Saxe is Senior Editor at ReadTomato, where he oversees content creation and manages Hot Take Engine client portfolios. He's been with ReadTomato since 2008 and has been a licensed California real estate broker since 2002.

Ashley Alexander is a Project Manager and Marketing Strategist at ReadTomato, overseeing end-to-end project execution, cross-team coordination, and marketing initiatives. With a background in digital marketing, automation, and AI-powered systems, she bridges strategy and execution to ensure work is efficient, aligned, and built to perform with clarity and impact.

Sherry is the Copywriting Manager at ReadTomato and has been writing professional marketing content since 2008. She helps clients turn rough ideas and industry expertise into clear, engaging copy that's easy to read, genuinely useful, and aligned with real business goals, from building trust and credibility to generating leads and conversions.

Joshua Marshall is an editor, proofreader, and writer with over a decade of experience helping clients create clear, engaging, and professional content. He has partnered with marketing firms, web agencies, and small to mid-sized businesses to refine messaging, improve readability, and maintain quality across blogs, web copy, and marketing materials. At ReadTomato, Josh ensures every piece of content is accurate, cohesive, and aligned with client goals.

Gly Amor is a Product Manager at ReadTomato, overseeing payroll, accounting, client billing, and accounts receivable. She helps keep the company's financial operations accurate and organized, managing everything from client invoicing and payment follow-ups to payroll and financial records. Detail-oriented and proactive, Gly plays a key role in keeping ReadTomato's day-to-day financial operations running smoothly.

Ailenne Badoy is the Customer Relations Manager focused on keeping client relationships organized, responsive, and moving forward. She manages day-to-day communication, follow-ups, and client support, making sure every account stays on track and clients always know what's happening and what comes next.

Agatha Pambusan is a Sales Executive focused on building new relationships and keeping the sales pipeline moving. She connects with prospective clients, follows up on opportunities, and helps turn the right conversations into lasting client relationships.