

RT - Sales Communications Marketing Tactics

1. Social Proof & Authority

- a. Why it works: People trust what others endorse. If your product is seen with influencers, happy customers, or experts, it feels instantly validated.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Repost customer testimonials or unboxings.
 - ii. Use UGC (user-generated content) in Stories and Reels.
 - iii. Partner with micro-influencers who align with your niche.

2. Scarcity & Urgency

- a. Why it works: Fear of missing out (FOMO) drives action. If something might disappear, people act faster.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. “Only 12 left in stock” in captions.
 - ii. 24-hour Story countdown timers.
 - iii. Limited edition drops announced with hype.

3. Reciprocity

- a. Why it works: When you give value first, people feel compelled to return the favor by buying.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Share free tips, guides, or templates in posts.
 - ii. Run giveaways where “following is the cost.”
 - iii. Offer free shipping or bonus gifts with purchases.

4. Loss Aversion

- a. Why it works: People hate losing more than they love gaining. If they don't buy, they feel like they're missing out.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Frame your captions as “Don't miss this...” instead of “Get this.”
 - ii. Show before/after transformations — what happens if they don't act.

5. Anchoring & Pricing Psychology

- a. Why it works: The first price people see sets the standard for what feels like a “deal.”
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Show the higher “original price” crossed out.
 - ii. Position bundles as “best value” compared to singles.
 - iii. Use odd-number pricing (e.g., $47 instead of $50).

6. Curiosity & Storytelling

- a. Why it works: Humans are wired to finish stories. A well-crafted narrative hooks them.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Start captions with a relatable mini-story or problem.

- ii. Use carousel posts with a “cliffhanger” on slide one.
Reel hooks: “You won’t believe what happened when...”

7. Identity & Aspiration

- a. Why it works: People buy to reinforce who they are — or who they want to be.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Position your product as a lifestyle, not just a purchase.
 - ii. Show your product in aspirational settings (travel, fitness, success).
 - iii. Use inclusive language like “This is for people who...”

8. Commitment & Consistency

- a. Why it works: If someone engages once, they’re more likely to buy later.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Polls, quizzes, and sliders in Stories (get micro-commitments).
 - ii. “Save this post if...” calls to action
 - iii. Encourage comments with relatable questions.

9. The Dopamine Loop (Variable Rewards)

- a. Why it works: Our brains are wired to keep checking platforms that give unpredictable “rewards” (likes, comments, surprises). This same mechanism can keep followers hooked on your brand.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Create episodic content series (e.g., “Tip of the Day,” “Behind the Scenes Fridays”).
 - ii. Reveal surprises randomly (giveaways, exclusive codes, hidden drops).
 - iii. Use cliffhangers in Reels (“Wait until you see step 3 tomorrow...”).

10. Anticipation Triggers (Future Pacing)

- a. Why it works: Humans stay engaged when they anticipate what’s coming next.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Tease the “next post” in captions.
 - ii. Story cliffhangers: “Tomorrow I’ll show you the secret ingredient...”
 - iii. Build product hype weeks before launch with breadcrumbs.

11. Tribal Belonging (In-Group vs Out-Group)

- a. Why it works: People crave belonging, and once they’re “in” a tribe, they defend it and stay loyal.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Name your followers (e.g., “Glow Gang,” “Savvy Squad”).
 - ii. Use “we” and “us” language in captions.
 - iii. Share inside jokes/memes only your community “gets.”

12. The Zeigarnik Effect (Unfinished Business)

- a. Why it works: We remember incomplete tasks better than finished ones. Leaving things open loops keeps people returning.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Carousel posts with “Part 1 today, Part 2 tomorrow.”
 - ii. “Save this post for when I drop the full guide next week.”

- iii. Build challenges (Day 1–7 transformation series).

13. Authority + Vulnerability Duality

- a. Why it works: People follow those who are both experts and relatable humans. This creates dependency on your perspective.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Alternate expert content (“Here’s the 3-step formula...”) with vulnerable storytelling (“When I first started, I failed at...”).
 - ii. Create parasocial bonds where people feel like they know you personally.

14. Content Addiction Through Micro-Dopamine Wins

- a. Why it works: If people get small, instant value from every piece of content, they keep coming back.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Bite-size tips (1 tip per Story slide).
 - ii. Quick hacks with immediate payoff.
 - iii. Interactive polls/sliders that give instant feedback (“Which one are you?”).

15. Identity Lock-In

- a. Why it works: Once people buy or even engage deeply, they want to stay consistent with that identity.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. “If you’re reading this, you’re already ahead of 90% of people.”
 - ii. “Our community is full of action-takers like you.”
 - iii. Encourage public micro-commitments: “Comment ‘DONE’ if you saved this.”

16. FOMO Layered With “Fear of Being Left Out of Knowledge”

- a. Why it works: Not just missing a deal, but missing insider knowledge drives stronger engagement.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Caption hooks like “Most people don’t know this, but...”
 - ii. Gate knowledge across multiple posts.
 - iii. Reward loyal followers with “secret tips” only shared in Stories.

17. The Parasocial Effect (Familiarity = Trust)

- a. Why it works: People form one-sided “relationships” with creators they see often. They feel like you’re their friend.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Post Stories daily, even casual moments.
 - ii. Speak directly into the camera in Reels.
 - iii. Use repetition of phrases or visual motifs so people associate them with you.

18. Ritualization (Make Them Dependent on the Habit)

- a. Why it works: If you build rituals around your content, followers anchor your posts into their routines.
- b. How to use it:
 - i. Same posting times (so people expect you daily at 8AM).
 - ii. Weekly rituals (“Monday Mindset,” “Friday Drop”).
 - iii. Seasonal cycles (special offers only on holidays).
